Ford says 'no deal' in pardon of Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Ford spent two historic hours before investigating congressmen today and declared "there was no deal, period, under no circumstances" behind his pardon of Richard M. Nixon.

Ford acknowledged there was discussion of a pardon before Nixon resigned the presidency on Aug. 9, but said it was only that-discussion, with no commitments, agreements or recommendations on his

He told a nationally broadcast House Judiciary subcommittee hearing that despite the uproar over the pardon, he remains convinced that he did the right thing at the right time when he spared Nixon possible indictment and trial in the Watergate cover-

But the President said he acted in what he deemed the national interest, not for the sake of his resigned predecessor when he pardoned Nixon on Sept. 8.

"The reason I gave the pardon was not as to Mr. Nixon himself," Ford said. Then, thumping the witness table, he added: "I repeat and I repeat with emphasis, the purpose of the pardon was to try to get the United States, the Congress and the American people focusing on the serious problems we have .

"I assure you that there never was at any time any agreement whatsoever concerning a pardon to Mr. Nixon if he were to resign and I were to become President," Ford said in a lengthy opening

Then, after Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., spoke of "very dark suspicions" and made what another member called "an accusatory ... speech," Ford was blunter in his answer:

"I want to assure you, the members of Congress and the American people there was no deal, period, under no circum-

President vetoes Turkish compromise

today vetoed an attempt by Congress at a legislative compromise on cutting off weapons aid to Turkey and the House failed to override the veto.

The vote was 161 to 83, two votes short of the required two-thirds majority.

The vetoed bill would have allowed the President to continue sending military aid to Turkey until Dec. 10, but would have provided the aid would end immediately if U.S. weapons were forwarded by Turkey to its forces on Cyprus.

The sustained veto means short pay for thousands of government employes. The Turkey aid provisions are part of a bill to provide stop-gap spending authority for several major departments whose regular appropriations have not been enacted.

Their fiscal authority, including authority to pay employes, stopped Sept.

The action also scrambled congressional plans to leave for a campaigning recess

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., told newsmen, "We'll play it by ear," trying again to work out a compromise.

Ford had vetoed earlier a bill providing for a cutoff of military aid to Turkey unless progress were made in resolving the Cyprus dispute, leading to withdrawal of Turkish troops there. The second bill

Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., one of the leading supporters of the restrictions on arms aid to Turkey, blamed Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for putting pressure on Ford to veto the compromise

The veto was announced while Ford was his pardon of former President Richard M.

Ford, rebuffed by two successive congressional votes on the Turkish aid question, contends the threatened halt to aid shipments would stymie efforts to reach a negotiated settlement of the Cyprus dispute. In his latest veto message. Ford said:

"The Congress, despite the best efforts of the bipartisan leaders of both houses, has for the second time refused to recognize the realities of the situation.

Answering questions on whether he now thought he acted too hastily in granting the pardon. Ford acknowledged that the timing has been criticized but said, "I am convinced after reflection that the timing of the pardon was done at the right time."

When he was asked, "Don't you feel that acceptance of a pardon is tantamont to an admission of guilt?" Ford's response was quick: "I do, sir."

It was the first documented appearance of a sitting President before a congressional panel, and Ford said he agreed to voluntarily testify to fully and fairly present the facts behind his pardon

From the witness chair in the same room where the full Judiciary Committee conducted its hearings three months ago on Nixon's impeachment. Ford made these major disclosures:

-On Aug. 1 and 2, at meetings with Nixon's staff chief, Alexander M. Haig, and Nixon's chief attorney, James D. St. Clair, there was discussion of a pardon for Nixon if he resigned - as Nixon did on Aug. 9. But Ford said he made clear that "nothing we had talked about ... should be given any consideration" by Nixon in deciding whether to resign.

-The only condition he placed on the pardon he granted Sept. 8 was that Nixon would accept it.

-He had no reports from physicians or psychiatrists on Nixon's health, but did talk to others who had seen Nixon after he resigned. But these reports "were not a controlling factor in my decision.'

-He has decided that pardon requests of other Watergate figures will be routed through the Justice Department and he will consider them only after they are so

His statement concluded, Ford answered questions put by subcommittee members in turn, and firmly rejected any suggestion that there would have been reason for Haig to advise Nixon prior to his resignation that he might be pardoned if he quit the White House.

The question was raised by Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., and Ford replied: 'None whatsoever. Categorically no.'

Ford said he discussed the pardon with Haig on Aug. 1 only because the Nixon adviser had told him of various options being considered in the White House, and asked him for any recommendations he might make. "I had none." Ford said.

Edwards also noted that mercy was one of the considerations in the Nixon pardon, and asked whether the same consideration might now apply to the five men

Defense lawyers challenge playing of White House tape

WASHINGTON (AP) - Prosecutors at the Watergate coverup trial prepared today to play one of the subpoenaed White House tapes but defense lawyers quickly challenged whether the recording could be used as evidence.

With former White House counsel John W. Dean III on the stand as the first prosecution witness, the government planned to play the tape of a Sept. 15, 1972, conversation Dean had with then-President Richard M. Nixon and H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's chief-of-staff and one of the five cover-up defendants.

Before the jury entered the courtroom, John J. Wilson, Haldeman's lawyer, was on his feet challenging the use of the White House tapes as evidence.

"I want to examine Mr. Dean on his memory of these tapes before they go into evidence," Wilson said.

Wilson urged U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to set a far stricter standard for admissibility of the tapes than had been suggested by the prosecutors.

In a memorandum submitted Wednesday to Sirica the prosecutors argued that the tapes would be admissible so long as one of the participants, Dean in this case, "recalls all the participants in the conversations, identifies all the voices on the tapes as those of the participants, and who recalls the substance of the conversations as well as many details of the conversation.'

The prosecutors argued there was no need for Dean "to remember each and every detail of the conversation.'

Wilson, however, argued for far more questioning of Dean's memory of details. The defense attorney also threatened to object line by line during the playing of the tapes on the grounds of relevancy.

Sirica said he would permit no such

Nixon files custody suit for documents

WASHINGTON (AP) -President Richard M. Nixon filed a suit in federal court today to retain custody of millions of documents from his administra-

Nixon asked the court to order presidential counsel Philip W. Buchen and two other government officials not to produce or disclose any presidential materials to anyone other than himself.

In the complaint Nixon said that he had entered into an agreement with the Ford administration to house his presidential materials and personal records in California but that the White House has not honored the agreement.

"The relief requested is merely to preserve the status quo; that is, to maintain the existing confidentiality of the presidential materials and to preserve (Nixon's) right to control access thereto,' the former president's complaint said.

The application for a temporary restraining order was filed against Buchen, Arthur F. Sampson, the head of the General Services Administration, and Secret Service director H. Stuart Knight, individually and in their official capacities.

The aim of the suit is to give Nixon, rather than the White House, the right to decide who gets access to the documents. On Sept. 6 Nixon and Sampson signed an agreement in which the former president agreed to house all his presidential materials with the GSA in a facility near Nixon's San Clemente home in California.

The agreement provided that Nixon, as custodian of the materials, would get one key and the government another. It also said that Nixon's tape recordings would remain on deposit until September 1979 and that Nixon thereafter had the right to destroy any recordings before returning the remainder to the government.

Nixon noted that he is subject to subpoenas demanding production of the materials but that he cannot answer them because the documents are not in his

Councilman takes exception to story

Councilman Carl Franklin took exception Wednesday to a news report and editorial in The Democrat-Capital stating that some Democrats on the City Council were seeking closed hearings on the charges lodged against Police Chief William Miller.

Franklin said he had always favored public hearings and would continue to do so. He said no other Democrats on the council had indicated a desire to hold the hearing in secret.

The initial report that some Democrats had sought a closed session with Miller was included in a story on Monday night's special City Council meeting. The press was barred from the meeting. Franklin, Third Ward Democrat, also

Vinegar won't harm health

Dear Dr. Lamb — In a recent column you discussed the use of vinegar to tenderize meat before cooking and state that. "any alcohol present will be destroyed in the cooking

My question isn, what effect does vinegar have on the body health, particularly the stomach? I have read that some feel that it hinders the digestion of starch and some protein: I have also read literature advocating the use of vinegar for certain illnesses. Would you please tell me in as simple a language as possible the effect of distilled vinegar and apple cider vinegar?

Dear Reader - First, you have taken the statement about alcohol out of context. That referred to the use of wine to tenderize meats. Vinegar contains no alcohol.

Vinegar is acetic acid. What is acetic acid? It is similar in some ways to alcohol. It is made of two carbon atoms and some hydrogen and oxygen. It is a weak acid and is responsible for that acid-like reaction of vinegar.

Now, all our food that is converted completely to energy, for any purpose in the body, must first be broken down to acetic acid. The sugar you eat, the fat in your meat or other foods, and even the proteins you tear down and use for energy must first be converted to acetic acid before they complete the cycle in the cell to. be converted to energy, carbon dioxide and water.

Initially all our food begins with the formation of carbohydrates in plants by the action of energy from the sun and using carbon dioxide and water. When the energy is released in the body all foods are converted back to carbon dioxide, water and energy. That is the energy cycle.

Obviously vinegar added to food in reasonable amounts does not harm a normal stomach nor does it interfere with normal digestion of starch or other foods. The stomach normally produces even more acid digestive juice to cause

Vinegar is not much use as a medication. It is often cited in folk medicine but such oldfashioned ideas are about as useful as the idea that the way to cure people of all sorts of illnesses is to bleed them. Doctors once did that 200 years ago. That is probably the immediate cause of George Washington's death.

Specifically, vinegar and honey do not dissolve cataracts of the eye or have other magical qualities.

There are no important differences between apple cider vinegar and distilled vinegar. The main ingredient in both is acetic acid. You can get a difference in flavor from traces of chemicals from the fruit. This applies to apple cider vinegar or wine vinegar.

Both apple cider and fruit juice can ferment to form alcohol, then the alcohol can be converted to vinegar. Because alcohol and acetic acid are similar in some respects it is chemically easy for wine to turn to vinegar. Fortuntately, vinegar has none of the intoxicating effects or the harmful effects on the cells that alcohol does.

In the body alcohol is converted directly to acetic acid by means of an enzyme in the cell and then metabolized just like acetic acid from fat. carbohydrate, or proteins to release energy, carbon dioxide, and water. This process uses oxygen. So plants release oxygen in forming food containing energy, and we use oxygen to tear the food apart to release energy.

Group needs barbershop singers

By KAREN FLANDERMEYER Editor, Living Today

A group of local songsters has a crying need for singers. It's a discriminatory group, however, because it's "for women only," according to Mrs. Dale Skinner, vice-president, treasurer and assistant director of Sedalia Prospective Chapter Sweet

Mrs. Skinner was quick to dispel the notion that a person needed a main solo voice to join the group. "You don't have to be a great singer - anybody can do it.

"All we need is people who can carry a tune and who like to "Barbershop is a blending of voices," Mrs. Skinner stated, "we want our 20 voices to sound like one. We never want one voice to

Sweet Adelines was begun in the early 1900s in Tulsa, Okla., for the sole purpose of teaching ladies to sing four-part, barbershop

The Sedalia chapter was formed in January of 1973, with Michael Rooks as the director. After the group enlisted 20 members, it applied for a charter. After completion of this final step, Mrs. Skinner said, the Sedalia chapter will be able to compete in yearly Region 7 competitions. Five states make up Region 7, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa and Nebraska.

Winners of the regional competition go on to international Mrs. Skinner said barbershop music has two characteristics. It must be sung acappelo and in four parts: lead, tenor, bass and baritone. "Anyone can sing three parts but baritone, the hardest part to sing, is what makes barbershop," Mrs. Skinner said. Many people think only certain songs are barbershop, Mrs.

Skinner said, "but that's not true. Barbershop is an arrangement in four parts. So any song can be sung barbershop. Some of Sweet Adelines' favorites are "Yes Sir, That's My

Baby," "Let's Sing an Old-Time Song," "Whole World in His Hands," "Shadow of Your Smile" and "That Old Gang of Mine." "Harmonize the World" is an international favorite. "The nice thing about barbershop is that you can go anywhere to sing, any time, because no musical instruments are needed." And they do go anywhere, for free! "We sing for no charge for all sorts of organizations," Mrs. Skinner said, "just because we'd like to have the opportunity to sing." Some of the groups that have invited Sweet Adlines for "sing outs" are Business and Professional Women, Masons, Elks, Helen G. Steele Club and Beta Sigma Phi chapters. They even sang for the Bothwell Hospital Christmas party last year at Walnut Hills.

Sweet Adelines also holds an annual fund-raising show. "It's like a stage production," Mrs. Skinner said, "in that a theme is chosen, the stage is decorated and costuming is done.

"There's room for all facets of talent in Sweet Adelines," she stressed. "We need people with good administrative abilities, choreographers, designers and seamstresses for costuming, music arrangers and advertisers.'

The cost of joining Sweet Adelines is minimal too. Mrs. Skinner said. Dues, which are 50 cents a week, take care of international fees and the annual show expenses right down to the "coffee and cookies" served during each session.

But with only 20 members, Mrs. Skinner said, the Sedalia chapter really nurts when even one person misses the weekly sessions, held from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Tuesdays at Wesley United Methodist Church. "With only five persons singing each part, just one voice missing will take away the balance. "The bigger the chorus, the better the sound and we want to take Sedalia's chorus to competition and win.

"Besides, it's a fun night out for the girls that doesn't cost much," Mrs. Skinner said, "and once it gets ahold of you, it's hard to let go."

Three killed in Missouri auto accidents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three persons died today as the result of accidents on Missouri streets and highways. Two of them were fatally injured in mishaps Wednesday night, and a fourth person was killed in a Kansas City motorcycle accident Wednesday.

David W. Settle, 23, of Kansas City was killed early today when his car crossed the median divider on Interstate 435 in Kansas City and crashed headon into another car, whose driver was hospitalized with head and arm injuries.

Settle's car was struck by a gasoline tank truck after the collision but there was no fire and the truck driver was not injured, the Missouri Highway Patrol said.

Curtis W. Davis, 19, of Kansas City was killed Wednesday evening when a friend's motorcycle he was driving went out of control, skidded more than 200 feet and smashed into a pickup truck and a car on a Kansas City street.

Two other persons died this morning from injuries suffered in separate traffic accidents Wednesday night.

They were:

Timothy McSparin, 14, Elsberry, died at the Lincoln County Hospital in Troy of injuries he suffered when struck by a car while riding his bicycle along Mo. 79 east of Elsberry.

Authorities said George Jacob Knapp, 63, Prescott, Ariz., died at Cox Medical Center in Springfield, Mo., of injuries he suffered in an accident about 8:30 p.m.

Police said Knapp was driving a station wagon on a Webster County route about five miles west of Marshfield when the vehicle went out of control on a curve.

Urge Ford to initial housing bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite some misgivings, the administration's top housing official is urging President Ford to sign a bill earmarking $7.75 billion in federal money to help home buyers.

However, James T. Lynn, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, warned in a session with reporters Wednesday that it will be some time before the housing industry can revive.

The industry currently is starting new homes at a rate equivalent to 1.13 million units for the whole year.

That is a drop of 1.38 million housing starts in the last 22 months. During the same time, unemployment in the construction industry has risen to 12.4 per cent, with nearly 500,000 construction workers unemployed.

Even with new federal money, which would come on top of $19 billion in federal funds already pumped into the housing market, Lynn said he expects it to be 1975 before construction activity picks up.

the economy, new starts next year probably will be below the 2 million units Lynn's agency has estimated are needed annually to provide the nation with decent

The housing aid legislation, which represents the first response by Congress to Ford's economic proposals last week, would authorize the government to use its borrowing muscle to provide below-market loans for home buyers.

The version sitting on Ford's desk contains a formula that pegs the interest rate for home buyers to the rates the Treasury pays for its money.

Lynn said he would have preferred complete flexibility in setting interest rates, but despite the formula in the bill, 'on balance, its advantages outweigh its disadvantages.

Ford said in his economic address that he is prepared to pump $3 billion of the $7.75 billion into the housing market quickly to provide enough loans to cover 100,000 new houses at a cost to the government of $150 million at current interest rates.

Lynn said he will wait to see what developments occur in the housing and money markets before deciding whether to recommend spending any more of the authorized money.

Meanwhile, the federal Home Loan Bank Board announced that the average purchase price of a new home jumped by $2,900 to $43,100 in September. And the effective interest rate on home loans rose to an average of 9.2 per cent compared to, 9.09 per cent a month later.

That means the average purchased last month required an $11,600 down payment and monthly payments of $258 over 26 years.

A year ago, the average new house cost $9,000 down and $210 a month for 27 years.

Railroad retirement system bill passes over Ford's veto

WASHINGTON (AP) - A bill authorizing the government to put $7.1 billion into the financially troubled railroad retirement system has been enacted into law by Congress over President Ford's veto.

The Senate voted 72-1 Wednesday to approve the bill, marking the first time Congress rejected a veto from Ford. The House voted 360-12 Tuesday to override. Both votes were far more than the necessary two-thirds.

The new law will restructure the railroad retirement system and pump $285 million in federal money into it annually for the next 25 years.

Ford criticized the bill as too expensive and said Congress should come up with a plan that puts less of a burden on taxpavers.

However, Congress decided that a vote to sustain the veto would be politically dangerous since the alternative to a federal subsidy would be a substantial reduction in pensions now being received.

There are about 1 million retired rail workers and survivors now receiving pension checks. The 600,000 workers currently on railroad payrolls also are covered by the system.

Troops are ready for action in Boston

BOSTON (AP) - The National Guard was standing by today, and federal troops have been placed on increased alert to deal with any continued violence related to court-ordered busing to achieve integration in Boston's public schools.

Gen. Vahan Vartanian, adjutant general of the Massachusetts National Guard, said the Guard members will remain in the city as long as needed.

In a "purely precautionary move" Wednesday, the Pentagon said Army paratroopers at Ft. Bragg, N.C., were placed on increased alert in case they were needed as a "last resort" in the Boston school crisis.

Schools and streets were quiet Wednesday, officials said. School attendance was down, with 66.7 per cent of the city's public school students reporting to classes. The highest attendance rate since schools opened Sept. 12 was 80 per cent. Attendance Tuesday, before a confrontation at Hyde Park High School in which eight students were injured, was 74 per cent.

Breast cancer surgery for

Mrs. Rockefeller

NEW YORK (AP) - Vice Presidentdesignate Nelson A. Rockefeller announced today that his wife, Happy, was undergoing surgery for breast cancer.

He described the surgery as a radical mastectomy in the left breast. He said the surgery started at 8:30 a.m. in Sloan Kettering Memorial Hospital.

"I'm confident that it's going to come out. All I can say is 'thank God' that she got in and that this country has such wonderful doctors." Rockefeller told a news conference in his Manhattan office.

The surgery came about a week after

Mills says he is still embarrassed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) - Rep. Wilbur D. Mills has denied any romantic involvement with a former stripper who was with him during an encounter earlier this month with park police in Washington, D.C.

Mills also said he may have had "a little too much" to drink before the incident. The Arkansas Democrat who is opposed in his bid for a 19th term in Congress by Republican Judy Petty of Little Rock arrived here Wednesday after nine days of seclusion.

Mills said he believed the incident would be a factor in that race, but added that he thought he would win. "I don't think there's any question about that," Mills said in an interview with John Meyer of CBS News.

Police said Mills was intoxicated when they stopped his speeding, unlighted car at subcommittee on criminal justice and the 2 a.m. on Oct. 7. Mills was not driving and his wife was not with him.

One of the four other persons in the car was Annabel Battistella, 38, identified as and candid with the American people. a former dancer who reportedly had worked as a stripper in a Washington documented appearance by a sitting nightclub and was billed as "the Argentine firecracker." # Rockefeller request is rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Rules Committee has turned down Nelson A. Rockefeller's request for an immediate reopening of his vice presidential confirmation hearings, but has scheduled a session Nov. 13 to question him.

Rockefeller had hoped to go before the committee this week to explain his nearly $2 million gifts to political associates and friends and a $60,000 payment by his brother Laurance to finance a critical campaign biography of Arthur J. Goldberg, who was Rockefeller's opponent in the 1970 New York gubernatorial election.

The decision to delay reopening the hearings until after the November elections was engineered by Democrats on the Rules Committee without consultation of GOP members, said Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

Scott said he was "extremely disappointed" by the delay, and Rockefeller said in a statement that "I regret tht I won't have a proper forum for at least another month. In explaining the delay, Rules Chairman

Howard A. Cannon, D-Nev., said the committee's investigation of the gifts and the book have not been completed and that a report on the audit of Rockefeller's income and gift tax returns will not be available before next Tuesday. Congress is not scheduled to reconvene from an already-postponed campaign recess until Nov. 18.

Bishops said close to vote on women ordained as priests

OAXTEPEC, Mexico (AP) - The Episcopal House of Bishops was reported close to a vote today on the issue of ordaining women priests.

Bishop Robert Spears of Rochester, N. Y., said on Wednesday that he believed a "sizable majority" of the about 150 bishops meeting here favors women's ordination. There are 220 bishops in the Bishop Spears, leader of the debate, said the bishops would vote on whether to hold a special meeting of the church's General Convention in 1975 to consider the subject. In addition, he said they probably will vote on the principle itself.

The annual meeting of bishops ends Friday in this semitropical resort 40 miles south of Mexico City.

On July 29, 11 women deacons were ordained in Philadelphia priests of the Episcopal Church of the United States, which claims 3.2 million members.

Small town bank thriving

By RICK SCOTT Associated Press Writer

RIO VISTA, Tex. (AP) - A rural West Texas town of about 400 inhabitants seems a strange place to find a thriving bank.

But the First State Bank of Rio Vista, better known to its customers as the Cow Pasture Bank, boasts 12,000 customers and deposits of $21.4 million, up nearly $3 million from a year

While many small town bankers brood over sagging deposits, Lowell Smith Jr. says continuity of management is the real secret of his bank's suc-

Smith is president of the bank, which was founded by his father more than 50 years ago. His father, who "is crowding 80," still is chairman of the bank's board.

Some novel marketing approaches also help explain the bank's success.

First, it's probably the only bank with fly-in service.

A customer can land on the airstrip in the pasture behind the bank and walk up to the window to make a deposit or withdrawal.

"Quite a few people fly in each week to make deposits." Smith said in an interview. "I guess it's a convenience other banks don't offer.

The strip behind the bank is on the Smith family ranch on the outskirts of town.

The bank itself operates from an unprententious, Western-style building. The interior is decorated with painted scenes and pictures depicting Western life. And then there are the bank checks with a cartoon drawing

The bank has a three-county service area "which is pretty much open country." (Democrat-Capital Service) ST. LOUIS - Unless a kidney donor is found for 7-year-old

Marty Baslee, the former Sedalia youth will spend the rest of his life making periodic trips to a dialysis machine in St. Marty was 6 when it was discovered that his kidneys were diseased and for the past six months he has been a patient at Mercy Hospital, Kansas City. Last week, he was transferred to St. Louis Children's Hospital and on Oct. 8, he underwent a kidney transplant. The donor was his mother, Mrs. Judy Baslee.

According to the youth's grandmother, Mrs. Kathryn Ellis, 1823 East Ninth, Sedalia, the new kidney "seemed to be working all right until Tuesday night when he started running a high fever.

She said, "At first the doctors seemed to think he might have a ruptured spleen, but when they performed another operation (the same evening) they found the kidney had

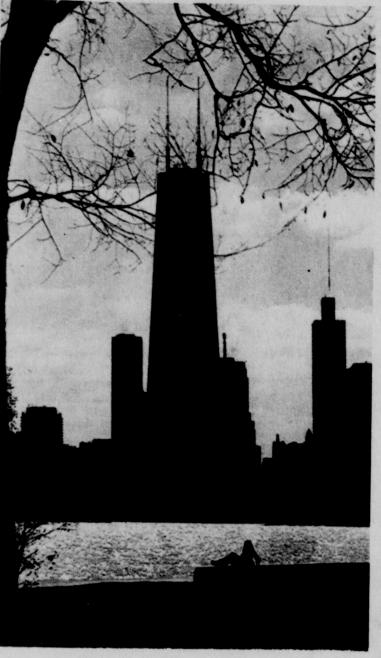

Mrs. Ellis said the family began receiving welfare shortly after moving to Kansas City about a year ago.

She said Mrs. Baslee moved to the Kansas City area after she was divorced from her husband Robert Wayne Baslee. Mrs. Baslee was employed parttime in Kansas City but has not been able to work for the past eight months due to her son's illness. She was employed at Rival Manufacturing before leaving Sedalia.

The boy's father currently is with the family in St. Louis, but also is unemployed, Mrs. Ellis

"How they will be taking care of themselves, I don't know.' Mrs. Ellis added.

Mrs. Baslee is recovering from her part in the transplant operation at Barnes Hospital. St. Louis. Marty's brother, Robbie, 9, is attending school in Sedalia while living with Mrs. Ellis. Another brother, Mike, 6, is living with grandparents in Green Ridge.

By ANN BLACKMAN Associated Press Writer

A year ago. Martha Keys was known in Manhattan. Kan., as the attractive wife of a college dean, a mother of four. "I had no desire to run for Congress," she says.

But one late-summer night several weeks ago, she was resting her head against the back seat of her campaign car and munching on dinner — a slice of pepperoni pizza.

It was 11 p.m. She'd been up since 7 that morning - shaking hands ... smiling ... a staff meeting ... notes for a speech ... shaking hands ... smiling ... a tea ... a fund raiser ... another chili dinner ... shaking hands ...

All for one end.

Mrs. Keys, 44 and a Demo-crat, is taking her first shot at elective office. She's a candidate for Congress.

"I found that if changes were going to be made, I'd have to run myself," said Mrs. Keys of her Kansas election district, which has elected Republicans for years. Fran Ryan of Columbus, Ohio, Democrat, Roman Catholic, mother of five, also

The list of women running this year for local, state and national office is long enough to make even the most dedicated housewives and male chauvinists take notice.

One hundred and twentyfive women tried for Congress in state primaries, almost twice as many women as in 1972. Forty-three won their party's nomination for the House, three for the Senate.

Three women are gubernatorial candidates. Two years ago there were none. Four have won their party's nomination for lieutenant governor. And from Massachusetts to California, hundreds of women are running for local office. Some politicos are calling 1974 "The Year of the Woman," a time for fresh faces, clean images and putting scandals behind.

But the candidates have problems; the problems of being women.

A campaign necessity

Millicent Fenwick, campaigining in the rainswept parking lot of a New Jersey super market, admires a baby as all politicans must while seeking the mother's vote. Mrs. Fenwick, 64, a Republican, is seeking election to say it's almost impossible for a mother with small children to run for office unless there's a grandmother, aunt or close friend around to mind the

For those women already in Congress, among them Rep. Pat Schroeder, 33, a Colorado Democrat, there's a daily pro-

Congress in her central New Jersey district. Her previous political experience includes a stint in the state assembly and as head of the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs.

"It's the constant subtle putdown," she said. "There's all sorts of innuendoes. They say, 'Why don't you talk to your husband more often?' or 'Who on your staff told you that?'"

The biggest problem the women face is raising money. Common Cause records show that in 1972, male candidates for Congress received 22 per cent more in campaign contributions than their female opponents.

"The average woman candidate hasn't been in the communities of power and money," said Fredrica W. Wechsler, political action coordinator for the Woman's Political Caucus, an organization started three years ago to encourage women to run for political office. 'She's usually from an academic background, a volunteer background or the social

"Who are the people she knows? Not the people with money. Many male candidates are from business backgrounds, they're attorwith well-to-do clients. Raising money is less of a problem for them.

Mrs. Keys is running against John C. Peterson, a two-term Republican state representative who by Sept. 1 had raised $31,167 in campaign contributions, more than 21/2 times as much as she had. He had outspent her 4 to 1 in advertising.

At that time, the Republican party gave Peterson $4,000. The Democrats, who are concentrating their fire on a tough Senate race, had given Mrs. Keys $1,000.

"Politics has always been a masculine thing," said Jeane J. Kirkpatrick, author of a new book called "Political Woman." "It's had a locker room smell ... While it's true that discrimination against women is real, it's also true that women have been more reluctant than other groups to try to overcome the discouragements.

Ms. Kirkpatrick's point is illustrated by the fact that women represent almost 52 per cent of the electorate and only three per cent of Congress.

One of those women in Congress is Rep. Ella T. Grasso, a Connecticut Democrat who has been in elective politics for over 20 years. Many political observers say it's precisely that experience. political background and exposure that gives her the best chances of any woman to win her state's gubernatorial campaign. Her victory would make her the first woman governor in the United States who did not follow her husband into office. "They look at me as a candidate, not a woman," said Mrs.

Grasso. Her staff, however. felt it necessary to take a poll before the campaign started to see if Connecticut voters were ready for a female gubernatorial candidate. "Everyone thought it was a problem but me. And I was right. The poll showed that being a woman is not a pro-

Some insist that after Watergate, it's an advantage to be a female candidate.

"I thought being a woman would be the biggest hurdle to get over," said Judy Petty, a 31-year-old Republican congressional candidate from Little Rock, Ark. She is challenging Rep. Wilbur Mills. one of the most powerful men in Congress.

Mrs. Petty has hammered away at the financing of Mills' brief 1972 presidential campaign, which was aided by what she says were illegal contributions from a big dairy cooperative and two corporations. She also has sought to benefit from voter dissatisfaction with high federal taxes. for which she says Mills must bear much responsibility as chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee.

"I never thought I could afford such a knockout outfit this year. Thank You, Singer."

You can make it, America! Singer will help.

Think of it. Any look you want. For less than you'd spend on dinner out. All it takes is a good sewing machine. A Singer* sewing machine. Because we make them to make things easier. Our Touch & Sew* machine for example. It sews everything from knits to what-nots with 15 different stitches. It has a built-in buttonholer so you can pick button-up patterns without a second thought. And it's got all-dial controls. Does all its tricks at the touch of your fingertips. And would you believe a push-button front drop-in bobbin? Fabulous! And exclusive. Because we invented it.

With this sophisticated machine you can turn out even the most complicated designer number. And keep smiling, all the way. And it's on sale to save you $70 before you even sew a stitch. Free instructions come with it. In fact you get hours of free instruction with any machine you buy at Singer. Including our great zig-zag machine, on sale at $88. Really efficient. Among other good things, it's got an exclusive front drop-in bobbin. And a blind-hem stitch you can barely see on the right side. Now -if you haven't turned your old machine into a planter, just bring it to Singer. You'll get a surprisingly generous trade-in allowance.

Thanksgiving brunch planned at White House

By PIET BENNETT Associated Press Writer

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) - Late next month 23 men from points as distant as South Africa will leave their families during the Thanksgiving holiday week and fly to Washington just to have brunch.

But the 11 a.m. meal on Thanksgiving Day is a special occasion for each of them

The brunch will be held at the White House and it will be the 44th annual gathering of the 30-30 Club, representing those who helped old South High in Grand Rapids to an undefeated football season in 1930.

"I'd mortgage my house if that was the only way I could get the money for this trip," is the way Arthur Brown, the squad's starting left tackle and club secretary, assessed the invitation from an old teammate. Brown's old teammate is President Gerald Ford, who was the starting center and only player on the squad to make all-state that season.

Despite his national leadership role, Mr. Ford is only the club's vice president and no change is likely this year. Brown said.

Twenty-four players are living and just two have told Brown they cannot attend. Two others still have not replied.

In addition, the team's coach and assistant coach, a former South High School principal and two team managers are in-

The Thanksgiving gatherings mark the date of the last game the team played as a unit.

Until this year, the annual get-togethers always were held in Grand Rapids, and Ford used to fly back from Washington for them during his 25 years as a congressman from west Michigan.

The White House brunch is limited to members and their wives because "everybody a sailor, and one a funeral diwants to get in the act. Ford's office here says at least 190 persons have told them they played football at South with

Long, sexy hair

By ERMA BOMBECK

I procrastinate a lot. Like I said, I was going to enroll in some night classes at the college, but the building is on a one-way street and I don't make left turns.

I was going on a diet and lose 23 pounds, but someone warned me I might develop a pasta deficiency.

I told everyone I was going to clean the garage, but I got to thinking if it were clean, someone might steal it.

Nine months ago, however, I pledged to let my hair grow. I've promised myself that before ... usually after I've seen a Grace Kelly movie. I get obsessed with the idea of waking up in the morning in a nest of hair that cascades over the pillow and having my husband say, "You temptress, you. Do you have any idea how appealing you are with your face nestled in a halo of curls?" "Control yourself," I say cruelly twirling in slow motion like they do on the shampoo commercials. Then I grab a satin robe and a hair brush and later emerge with my hair drawn back severely into a knot like Faye Dunaway. Then just to make myself unattractive, I grab for a pair of shell rim glasses and say primly, "That will be enough of that! Let's have breakfast.

I can't speak for blondes, but women with long hair seem to have more fun. They get all the sexy parts in the movies, all the leading men on television, and make the covers of every major magazine. When a woman with short hair makes it, she either gets six kids like Florence Henderson on the Brady Bunch, or gets her picture in the paper because her husband was fooling around and she shot him in the foot. (She also has a tight, home permanent.)

It has been nine months since I decided to join the "sexy" generation. It hasn't been easy. Hair grows in stages. There's the awkward "shag" which is too short to curl and too long for the Marines and brings about an affliction of jerking your head and flipping it out of your coat collar every three seconds. There's the Neanderthal length which just hamps limp and brings pitying glances from your friends who ask, "What happened?"

Biorhythms research may aid in disease treatment

- Rhythms that could be of great importance to man are being studied by a doctor here who uses himself as his No. 1. test animal.

Dr. Howard Levine studies biorhythms, or the pattern of biological functions in the hu-

Among questions that he and other biorhythmic researchers ask are: How are workers affected by being switched from a night shift to a day shift? Are medications prescribed at 10 a.m. too large or too small at 2 p.m.? Is there a best time to treat cancer patients?

"Some day," says Levine, chief of medicine and medical education at New Britain General Hospital, "when science is more sophisticated about rhythms, the minute data can be reanalyzed and perhaps

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) contribute to a better understanding of the ways our bodies operate in time.

> On trips, the 58-year-old physician takes along a brown suitcase containing instruments he needs to measure his own biorhythms several times daily. He records blood pressure, oral temperature, ability to estimate the passing of 120 seconds, peak respiratory flow, strength of hand grip and eye-hand coordination.

Not a hypochondriac on the prowl for something wrong with himself, Levine says he's driven by curiosity and fascination about the periodic functions of the human body.

He and other researchers are beginning to see clinical applications of their measured discoveries, he

For example, there is an optimal time to treat cancer in sible, he wonders, to shift that time by varying the animal's diet? If so, is the technique applicable to man?

The effectiveness of medications at different times of the day also reveals the importance of knowing about biorhythms, he explains.

For example, he says, female sex hormones are often administered to men to treat cancer of the prostate. The physician must first know the level of male sex hormones in the patient. In most hospitals that level is measured when the patient awakens in the morning.

But there is a rhythm in the level and in the morning it runs 35 to 40 per cent higher than around midnight.

Newsmen write book on the Nixon White House

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - "The Palace Guard," a tart, lively book about the Nixon White House, isn't exactly the kind of scholarly work a history professor might write. Personal opinions abound, fine-print footnotes don't.

The tone is in the classic feisty manner of the Texas Observer. But the Texan who co-authored it insists it wasn't written in that spirit

"I like to think it's written in its own spirit," laughed Dan Rather, the hard-nosed CBS correspondent the network transferred from the White House beat to "CBS Reports" after Nixon resigned as president in August.

"It's as close to the truth as we could make it without cutting the truth, that is, watering it down ... what we attempted to say was, 'Here it is as best I could make it out.

Rather's collaborator was Gary Paul Gates, a CBS newswriter. Since CBS bars leaves of absence, Rather said, Gates quit CBS to work full time on the project for six months, then was rehired by the network.

Some of the book's observations are funny, such as its portrait of economic adviser Arthur Burns: "His ample thatch of pewter-grey hair was precisely parted down the middle, as though to indulge the slightest deviation might make him look raffish.'

But some asides are acid, to wit, the end of a report on how strong-willed H.R. Haldeman, bested in a face-to-face dispute with strong-willed John Connally, later became a big booster of Connally for the vice presidency in 1972:

'In the classic bully pattern, Haldeman was the first to knuckle under when faced with a true show of strength.

Might not such remarks, many of them aimed at Haldeman, cause some readers to say, ah-hah, Rather really was out to get those folks?

"Well, they'll just have to jump up and down," he replied. 'For example, what is painted in the book is not only the Haldeman I know but the Haldeman I think an awful lot of

White House people knew.
"I wouldn't question for a moment that if Haldeman read the book he might very well say to himself, or someone else, 'There's nobody in that book that I recognize.

Economic advice 'old stuff'

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The American consumer, desperately seeking guidance through the tangled mess of his personal finances, has been told by the President to balance his page standbys.

budget, save, waste not, economize and "do it yourself. The advice recalls the slogans and aphorisms that gently introduce every grade-schooler to the realities of the marketplace. They are the key words and phrases of home economics courses. They are women's because they are practiced regularly by millions of homemakers, often out of necessity rather than from choice. They are the common sense foundation of any household's financ-Nevertheless, while such advice might be the basis for good household economics, it hardly serves as the basis for a newly announced, voluntary national program to meet the inflation-recession crisis, an economic emergency that has been compared in some respects to the 1930s.

They are familiar words also

First, it is old stuff. It is the very advice that millions of American householders have practiced almost instinctively for months and years. Many a householder must wonder if President Ford is the last to become aware of such habits.

Second, it appears to demonstrate the inability of the administration, or in fact any institution or segment of American society, to come up with believable, substantial advice for householders.

The net impact, therefore. could very well be measured as a further drop in consumer expectations, especially since so many consumers had expected that a change of adminis-trations would be accompanied by a change in strategies.

A University of Michigan consumer survey, for example, found 63 per cent of consumers felt that economic policy would change under Ford, although many expressed their opinion as a hope rather than a belief.

Now that substantial changes have not been forthcoming, disappointment is likely to be acute, and not to be assuaged by slogans such as "Whip Inflation Now," or by presidential admonitions to make out a list before shopping.

Stabilization of oil tax policies urged

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Investors will discontinue risking their money in oil unless the federal government creates a uniform tax policy for petroleum com-panies, an oil official charged Wednesday

Charles J. DiBona, executive vice-president of the American Petroleum Institute, said expenditures by 30 U.S. oil companies rose 122 per cent during the first half of 1974 because of increased drilling. But he said expansion would halt unless tax policies toward oil companies were stabilized.

"Uncertainty of tax treatment ranks just below adverse tax treatment as a discouragement to the necessary level of investments," DiBona told the annual meeting of the National Tax Association.

DiBona said more money was needed to move toward "energy self-sufficiency," but he said it would not be forthcoming unless "a climate is established that encourages investment in the high-risk, costly search for and development of new energy supplies and resources.'

Ben Franklin once said, "If you'd lose a troublesome visitor, lend him money.'

Power of evil spirits once thought for real

CHICAGO (AP) — These days witches are in the news generally only around Halloween. But while witches, goblins and ghosts may not be taken too seriously in the present sophisticated age, to our forefathers they were real.

In fact, some people were even afraid to yawn because

In the Middle Ages people believed evil spirits made them yawn and then jumped down their victims' throats while their mouths were open, according to World Book Encyclopedia. So people covered their mouths more for protection than politeness.

Those who couldn't stifle their yawns and were invaded by the spirit had to have the spirits and the sickness they brought exorcised, or driven out, usually through a combination of commands, prayers and ceremonies.

Throughout history, the mystique of magic, evil spirits and witchcraft led to the persecution of thousands of innocent people, mostly women. Some historians estimate the Christian Church put about 300,000 women to death for witchcraft between 1400 and the late 1700s. Many suffered terrible torture until they confessed to being witches to avoid further torment. There were many tests to determine whether a woman was a witch. Examiners sometimes searched for "devil's marks." These were moles, scars or other bodily marks that could be stuck with a pin without causing pain. These marks were an indication of guilt.

In another test, the suspect's arms and legs were tied together and she was thrown into deep water. If she floated, she was considered guilty of being a witch. If she drowned, she was innocent.

During the 1600s and 1700s a deep fear of witchcraft swept most of Europe. Thousands suspected of being witches were tried and executed. Courts allowed gossip and Halloween.

rumor as evidence. In many cases, according to World Book researchers, children testified against their own parents.

American colonists brought the belief with them from England. Suspected witches suffered persecution in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Virginia. In Massachusetts during 1692, the colonists executed 20 persons as witches and imprisoned 150 others.

During the mid-1900s, a new interest in witchcraft occurred in Europe and the United States. As a result, witchcraft festivals called Witches' Sabbaths take place four times a year. The most important festival occurs on WASHINGTON - New secret documents tell of 18 busy world airports which are open to Arab terrorist attack because of lax security or their location in guerrilla-infested areas.

The new survey by the Federal Aviation Administration supercedes one this summer turned up by Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., a House air safety expert. When we printed the names of the eight "most vulnerable" airports then, we were criticized for breaking the seal of secrecy on classified FAA documents.

But we reasoned that travelers had a right to that information, and now the new survey seems to bear us out. The current FAA study shows that London, which we listed as a security horror story, is now much improved. New Delhi and Bangkok have been dropped from the earlier list.

In any case, according to U. S. intelligence reports, the Fedayeen already know which airports are easy marks.

The new study, classified "For Official Use Only," names the 18 "High Risk Foreign Airports" as Rome, Frankfurt, Amsterdam, Geneva, Zurich, Madrid, Beirut, Athens, Tel Aviv, Paris, Munich, London, Istanbul, Vienna, Brussels, Barcelona, Copenhagen and Lisbon.

Terrorists have struck most frequently, the documents say, at Munich where 11 incidents have occurred. The FAA probers cite West Germany's "close Israeli ties" as one reason for the attacks. Second, with five episodes, is Rome. Athens and Beirut have had four each and Frankfurt and Amsterdam have had three.

Beirut and Tel Aviv are praised by the FAA for doing their best, but they are classified "High Risk" because of their location in the volatile Middle East. London has improved mightily, but is still listed because of the large number of flights, particularly departures bound for Merry-go-round

"Attacks at this time would be aimed at disrupting peace conference and as punishment of Swiss for allowing the conference," the FAA study says.

FOOTNOTE: Murphy pushed through a law permitting an embargo on flights between the United States and countries with risk-prone airports. In private correspondence Murphy has been urging the Department of Transportation to begin enforcing the law.

BIRCH BARK: President Ford warmly embraced C. R. Lewis, a prominent John Birch Society member, when he came to Washington recently. Lewis is running for the Senate in Alaska on the Republican ticket, so Ford posed with Lewis for the traditional hand-shaking scene for campaign use. The President even threw in an extra picture of them strolling together and a "Dear C. R." letter telling Lewis: "I am looking forward to working with you in the Senate.' The John Birch Society showed its appreciation later by ripping Ford apart in its "The Review of the News," which featured a full-page ad for Lewis' contracting firm.

"One cannot escape the feeling," declared the Bircher publication, "that Gerald Ford is under a discipline and serving a radical cause...

"When the script calls for declaring that American youth should prepare to emulate the example of young slaves in the concentration camp that is Red China, Gerald Ford follows the script.'

In sum, said the article, the President is a "hustler for Chairman Mao."

FOOTNOTE: The White House declined comment on the endorsement of the John angry over Switzerland's willingness to Birch candidate. But at the GOP campaign allow a Geneva peace conference on the committee, a spokesman told us the candidate's philosophy weighs far less than whether he can win."

WATCH ON WASTE: The Air Force shipped 350 personnel officers across the nation to San Antonio for a conference on management efficiency. The object was to save money for the taxpayers. Sources familiar with such conferences suggest, on the contrary, that it cost the taxpayers more than will be saved.

Just the per diem bills turned in by the 350 conferees added up to $52,000. An Air Force spokesman told us: "There is no way to figure travel costs."

WASHINGTON WHIRL: In a stern memo to his staff, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton told them their junketing has reached "unreasonable proportions" and must be cut back. Morton's own recent junkets include trips to Maine, the Gulf Coast, Mississippi and Alabama ... A White House aide, who defied the demands of the Watergate crew, is returning to government as the Interior Departments communications chief. He is Bill Rhatican, who single-handedly stopped the Nixon campaign from politicizing the White House anti-drug program . . . We reported recently that Army recruiters had been signing up misfits and even criminals in their eagerness to reach recruiting goals. Army Secretary Howard Callaway has now written us pledging: "We are making a sincere attempt to eliminate all irregularities from Army recruiting. I hope the unfortunate practices used in the past by a few Army recruiters will not detract from the overall outstanding success of our recruiting efforts" ... The Marine Corps recruiting slogan, "The Marines Are Looking for a Few Good Men," has irritated a lot of women. A group calling themselves the Federally Employed Women has accused the leathernecks of discriminating against women in their recruitment program.

On using Rocky's millions

WASHINGTON - The two major political problems in this country this week are that Nelson Rockefeller seems to have too much money and Richard Nixon doesn't seem to have enough

Last Friday the headlines said Rocky was throwing around money like a drunken congressman, while the Justice Department had made deal to defend Richard Nixon's Watergate civil suits at no cost to him.

This angered many people in the country, including Selwyn Mimser who called in a rage. "Why should I as a taxpayer have to foot Nixon's legal me. "At least, he can afford it more than we can."

"But," I said, "there could be a conflict of interest. Suppose Nixon ran for public office again? If he had accepted a gift of money he'd be under obligation to Rockefeller.'

"If you read Rockefeller's statements he has never given anybody money except as a gesture of appreciation and friendship. Not once has he taken advantage of the gifts."

"You know that," I said, "and I know that. But does Nixon know it? I think you have a good idea, but it won't fly. We, the public, should give Nixon anything he asks for and not leave it up to the Rockefellers

'While I'm the first to agree that this country should economize, I don't believe it should be at the expense of an ex-President who was forced to resign because he was up to his ears in the obstruction of justice for which he has been given a full and unqualified pardon."

"Well it was just an idea," Selwyn said. 'You don'thave to get sore at me.'

"I'm sorry. I lost my cool." I said. "But you have to admit, we've reached a sorry point in this country when we question a man who gives one or two million dollars away to people he has a deep affection

"I wasn't questioning that," Mimser protested. "All I was suggesting was a way to take care of Nixon's legal and household bills without sticking the taxpayer. Gerry Ford did ask us to think of ways of saving money."

"He also said it was time we forgave Rockefeller." I said, "because he's suffered

A conservative view

Heading off that GOP debacle

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON - This is the bulletbiting season, as President Ford keeps reminding us, and his own Republican Party may have to bite a whole boxful of bullets this month. As many as 40 seats in the House and five in the Senate could be amputated by the Democrats unlss - that appriasal.

Unless what? Unless normally conservative Republicans and independents come swiftly to their senses. Most of the imperiled seats won't be won by Democratic energy; they will be lost by Republican

A headline in last Sunday's Star-News put the prospect succinctly: "GOP Debacle Is Emerging." The newspaper's top political writer, Jack W. Germond, found a nation-wide pattern — so far as Republican fortunes are concerned - of "unrelieved misery." My own sources glumly confirm

It seems incredible that Peter Dominick could be in serious trouble in Colorado. In times past, he has been one of the most popular political figures in the state. Highly respected in the Senate, where he has served for the past 12 years, Dominick is fully qualified for re-election. Yet he seems to be trailing badly behind young Gary Hart, a McGovernite liberal with no track record at all.

It is equally dismaying to talk with experienced observers in Iowa, Kentucky, and even in Oregon, where Robert Packwood had been regarded as a certain winner. The news from Kansas, Oklahoma and North Dakota offers little encouragement. The major gubernatorial contests, in California and New York, find Democrats far ahead.

The underlying reasons are plain: inflation, Watergate, and pardon. To the extent that blame for the current recession can be politically fixed, the Democrats are far more responsible than the Republicans. The Democrats, after all, have controlled Congress for the past 20 years. Republican candidates for House and Senate had nothing whatever to do with Watergate. And to cast a vote against Peter Dominick because Gerald Ford pardoned Richard Nixon is to substitute lunacy for reason.

But if the debacle occurs, apathy will count for more than any other cause. Some 145 million Americans will be eligible to vote on Nov. 5. Fewer than half of them will take the time and trouble to go to the polls. In the off-year elections of 1966, according to the Census Bureau, 44.5 per cent of the eligibles voted. The percentage dropped to 43.8 in 1970. Last Sunday's Gallup Poll found political interest at a record low.

Just two years ago, 47 million voters provided an impressive statement of political choice. They voted generally against what George McGovern stood for, and generally in favor of what Richard Nixon stood for. This army of putatively conservative voters won the most convincing political victory of this century. Where have all the soldiers gone? Are they sulking like Achilles in his tent?

The debacle doesn't have to occur. If the Coloradoans who gave Nixon 63 per cent of their vote in 1972 will look to the future, instead of to the past, Dominick could yet be saved. The four House seats lost to Democrats in by-elections of the past year can be reclaimed in November. All that is required is that normally conservative voters act normally.

What will happen if conservatives stay home? What can be expected of a House and Senate overwhelmingly dominated by the Democratic Party? The consequences will bring the triumph of Big Labor and Big Liberalism - the ascension of the very programs, ideas and attitudes rejected two Nothing in the public opinion polls would indicate that this is what the people want. On the contrary, the Gallup Poll finds strong conservative leanings across the nation. Such leanings alone will get Republicans nowhere. Republicans need votes. The votes can yet be marshalled if disgruntled conservatives will only reflect upon the folly of the fellow who cut off his nose to spite his face.

By Oswald & James Jacoby "Deleted, deleted, deleted," swore South, "ex-pletive, expletive! I squeeze them and finally fall for a second-class swindle.'

Seven notrump was a mighty good contract. If hearts broke better than 5-1 South would have had 13 top tricks. As it was he worked out a perfect three-suit squeeze.

He won the spade lead with his king; played two rounds of hearts; stopped to regroup when West showed out and after considerable slow play came down to a three-card ending. He held a heart, a club and a high diamond club and a high diamond, which he lead. West sitting in front of dummy had to dis-card down to a high spade and one club whereupon the eight of spades was thrown from dummy to leave the king and jack of clubs.

East, sitting in back of dummy, had to hold a high heart and hence had to unguard his queen of clubs. unguard his queen of clubs.

Unfortunately for poor South, West had discarded the four of spades on the sec-ond heart; played the 10 of spades when the suit was next led; discarded the jack of spades and hung on to the nine.

South knew that one of East's last two cards was a heart. He finally decided that the other one was the nine of spades so South took the club finesse and went down two tricks.

Junior guards show promise for Tigers

Greg Cook thinks that junior offensive guards Bob Paul and Jim Barnes could be "two of the best linemen in the Central Missouri Conference as seniors next year.' And he may well be correct, especially if the two continue to progress as well in 1975 as they have this season. "They've played excellent all year long," says the Tigers'

"We have a poor record (1-5), but no one's given up, and they (Paul and Barnes) have been two of our strongest players all season long," Cook adds

Barnes also anchors the five-man Smith-Cotton front at nose guard on defense. Paul, who isn't handicapped in the slightest only one hand, also doubles on defense at linebacker. Paul was born without a left hand.

Both lettered as sophomores, two of only four to do so in 1973. The two are being counted on heavily for the balance of the season, as well as next year.

Mizzou, Huskers in favorite roles

By PICK M. WRIGHT, JR. Fearless Forecaster

Well the Big Eight war has started and Nebraska has become the first casualty, falling to the onslaught of Missouri artillery directed by sophomore quarterback Steve Pisarkewicz.

It seems I have an awful time picking those Tiger games (the only one I missed last week.) I currently stand at 26-9 or .742.

This week the Missouri Tigers travel to Stillwater, Okla., to meet another unpredictable team, the Oklahoma State Cowboys.

While the Tigers have gained renewed respect around the country, they will have to fight overconfidence which could kill their future hopes. The Tigers could be ripe for picking, but O-State has its own problems.

The Cowboys were once heavy-laden with offensive backs, but injuries have changed the picture. And last week's off date might have been bad for OSU. I say there will be some blood spilled on the field, but Missouri will end up with a 17-16 victory

One of the hottest Big Eight teams the last three weeks has been the stampede from Boulder, Colo.

The Buffs had been edging

Cook didn't run up the score before the start of the 1974 either. He substituted freely from the third period on. However, the Hannibal coaching statf didn't view the score the way Cook did.

"As far as the players they have, they may be the biggest team we'll face all year," Cook said of the Pirates, Friday night's road opponent.

'They're also as good a team as we'll see," he added.

A's hope to wrap up third straight World Series title behind Vida Blue

OAKLAND (AP) - The embattled Oakland A's have the Los Angeles Dodgers staggering on the ropes and plan to finish off the National League champs tonight with Vida Blue's lefthanded punch.

"I'd be disappointed if we don't end it tonight," said third baseman Sal Bando after the A's took a commanding 3-1 lead in the 1974 World Series with a 5-2 victory Wednesday night. "We think very positively."

With Don Sutton on the mound, the Dodgers aren't dead yet - but it may be just a matter of time. Even if they don't win tonight, history is on the A's side. Rarely has a team come back from a 3-1 deficit to win a World Series.

It's only happened three times -1925, 1958 and 1968. "We'd like to win tonight, but if we don't, we'll go on down to

Los Angeles and finish it," said Bando.

The A's hold the upper hand in this wacky series despite internal unrest, a condition that has been common with this oddball team for some time now.

Jim Holt, a pinch-hitter who had been in a terrible batting slump, rifled a two-run single in a four-run sixth inning that broke the game open. Dick Green knocked in a run and made some fabulous defensive plays at second base. And Ken Holtzman and Rollie Fingers, two pitchers that Buckner probably wouldn't mind having on his team, silenced the usually noisy Los Angeles bats.

Holtzman not only dominated the Dodgers most of the time he was in there, but also hit a home run, something the A's have had a tough time doing lately.

Talking about his drive off Andy Messersmith that gave the A's a 1-0 lead in the third inning, Holtzman said: "He got behind me and I was looking for a fastball — and I got it.

The euphoria felt by his home run was quickly dampened by the Dodgers in the next inning. They took a 2-1 lead over Oakland's 19-game winner on a two-run triple by Bill Russell. It quieted the crowd for a while, but they had plenty to shout

Bill North led off with a walk and moved to second when Messersmith threw wild past first attempting to pick him off. The A's took advantage of the Dodger mistake, of course. They've been doing it all Series long.

Bando drove in the tying run with a lazy, looping single to right field. Proud of his first hit in this Series, the stocky third baseman announced jokingly: "I hit the hell out of it.

Then Messersmith walked Reggie Jackson and got into more trouble when Joe Rudi sacrificed the runners along. Messersmith then issued an international walk to Claudell Washington, who was starting in place of Tenace, and the bases were loaded for the A's.

Holt was announced as the pinch-hitter for Ray Fosse despite a streak of recent frustration. Before the World Series, Holt had gone hitless in 25 appearances as a pinch-hitter. He came through in Saturday's first game, however, and then came through again Wednesday night with a clean base hit to right that gave the A's a 4-2 lead

Green then grounded into a forceout and Washington came home with the A's fourth run of the inning. It was all over at that point, but the Dodgers didn't know it. They struggled and squirmed while Holtzman held them at bay and then started to make some noises in the eighth inning.

Jimmy Wynn, leader of the Dodgers' long-ball offense this season, walked with two out and Steve Garvey, another of their gold-plated hitters, singled to left with two away. Dark wasted little time in calling in Fingers, whose handlebar moustache is as reknowned as his fine relief pitching.

Fingers struck out the dangerous Joe Ferguson for the last out of the inning, then got through the ninth with the help of a dazzling double play started by the omnipresent Green.

"We can't afford to think negative because we're down three games to one," noted Garvey, refusing to play dead. "You can bet we'll be back tomorrow.

Sports Editor There's the two-point loss to Marshall, the three-point loss to However, the Hannibal Jefferson City, the five-point loss to Jefferson City, as well as the 10 and 12-point losses to Blue Springs and Mexico respectively. But that's not what is bothering Sedalia Smith-Cotton football coach Greg Cook as much as last season's 49-6 shelling the Tigers gave Hannibal.

"The worst part about it is most of last year's Hannibal team was made up of sophomores and juniors. You can bet that they haven't forgotten it either." Cook said.

"As far as the players they have, they may be the biggest team we'll face all year," Cook said of the Pirates, Friday night's road opponent. 'They're also as good a team as we'll see," he added.

This week the Missouri Tigers travel to Stillwater, Okla., to meet another unpredictable team, the Oklahoma State

The Cowboys were once heavy-laden with offensive backs, but injuries have changed the picture. And last week's off date might have been bad for OSU. I say there will be some blood spilled on the field, but Missouri will end up with a Kirksville, 36-0; Pittsfield, Ill., 20-3; and Fulton, 38-12.

Rampy, who's a 6-2 senior, has quarterbacked the Pirates since he was a sophomore. He runs the offense well and is a strong passer. He's thrown 54 times, completed 24 for a total of 435 yards.

Two-hundred, seven-pound tight end Ed Thompson has been one of Rampy's favorite targets. He's hauled in 13 passes for 277 yards and three TD's.

Anchoring the offensive defensive teams are Darrell Buffington and Xavier Hall. Buffington is a two-year all-Central Missouri Conference choice. He plays offensive guard and is a linebacker on defense.

Hall was an all-league pick a year ago as a junior.

Other Hannibal standouts include 235-pound middle guard Mark Coons, defensive end Wayne Wood (170), Matthew Bueler (215), Greg Mack (190) and Kip Robinson (193).

Cook plans no changes in his offensive or defensive alignments. Senior Rick McRoy will do the quarterbacking; the running responsibilities will be Joseph Central, 30-11; left up to Bob Trautman, Mexico.

Marvin Spruell, Ray Newbill and Bill Deuel.

Doug Young will be at center; Larry Miley and either Mark Vinson or Harry Browder will be the ends; DeWayne Stratman and Dennis Van Baale at the tackles, with Bob Paul and Jim Barnes at the guard

On defense, Allen Fox and Jim Giokaris will handle the defensive end responsibilties; Stratman and Bob Campbell will open at tackle. Barnes is the nose guard.

Paul and Trautman are the linebackers; Spruell and Dennis Onwiler are scheduled to start at the corners. The safties will be Miley and Mike Mack.

Concerning the Tigers' 1-5 record, Cook says, "The biggest thing is that you can't panic. We've been in contention in all of our games. It's just the mistakes that have killed us.'

"You can't change and go up stream because one or two people make mistakes in a game," he added. -

Smith-Cotton was unable to use Spruell, the team's leading rusher much last week against way they played their monster man they forced us to go to our power back (Newbill) more," Cook commented. Cook is hopeful that Spruell will be able to see more action carrying the football against Hannibal. The worried look on the face of Smith-Cotton head football coach Greg Cook comes mainly from Tigers' 18 fumbles and eight pass interceptions through the first six games of the season. This year's 1-5 record to date has been a great disappointment to Cook after last year's 7-3 finish.

A's hope to wrap up third straight World Series title behind Vida Blue

OAKLAND (AP) - The embattled Oakland A's have the Los Angeles Dodgers staggering on the ropes and plan to finish off the National League champs tonight with Vida Blue's lefthanded punch.

"I'd be disappointed if we don't end it tonight," said third baseman Sal Bando after the A's took a commanding 3-1 lead in the 1974 World Series with a 5-2 victory Wednesday night. "We think very positively."

With Don Sutton on the mound, the Dodgers aren't dead yet - but it may be just a matter of time. Even if they don't win tonight, history is on the A's side. Rarely has a team come back from a 3-1 deficit to win a World Series.

It's only happened three times -1925, 1958 and 1968. "We'd like to win tonight, but if we don't, we'll go on down to

Los Angeles and finish it," said Bando.

The A's hold the upper hand in this wacky series despite internal unrest, a condition that has been common with this oddball team for some time now

Jim Holt, a pinch-hitter who had been in a terrible batting slump, rifled a two-run single in a four-run sixth inning that broke the game open. Dick Green knocked in a run and made some fabulous defensive plays at second base. And Ken Holtzman and Rollie Fingers, two pitchers that Buckner probably wouldn't mind having on his team, silenced the usually noisy Los Angeles bats.

Holtzman not only dominated the Dodgers most of the time he was in there, but also hit a home run, something the A's have had a tough time doing lately.

Talking about his drive off Andy Messersmith that gave the A's a 1-0 lead in the third inning, Holtzman said: "He got behind me and I was looking for a fastball - and I got it."

The euphoria felt by his home run was quickly dampened by the Dodgers in the next inning. They took a 2-1 lead over Oakland's 19-game winner on a two-run triple by Bill Russell. It quieted the crowd for a while, but they had plenty to shout

Bill North led off with a walk and moved to second when Messersmith threw wild past first attempting to pick him off. The A's took advantage of the Dodger mistake, of course. They've been doing it all Series long.

Bando drove in the tying run with a lazy, looping single to right field. Proud of his first hit in this Series, the stocky third baseman announced jokingly: "I hit the hell out of it."

Then Messersmith walked Reggie Jackson and got into more trouble when Joe Rudi sacrificed the runners along. Messersmith then issued an international walk to Claudell Washington, who was starting in place of Tenace, and the bases were loaded for the A's.

Holt was announced as the pinch-hitter for Ray Fosse despite a streak of recent frustration. Before the World Series, Holt had gone hitless in 25 appearances as a pinch-hitter. He came through in Saturday's first game, however, and then came through again Wednesday night with a clean base hit to right that gave the A's a 4-2 lead

Green then grounded into a forceout and Washington came home with the A's fourth run of the inning. It was all over at that point, but the Dodgers didn't know it. They struggled and squirmed while Holtzman held them at bay and then started to make some noises in the eighth inning.

Jimmy Wynn, leader of the Dodgers' long-ball offense this season, walked with two out and Steve Garvey, another of their gold-plated hitters, singled to left with two away. Dark wasted little time in calling in Fingers, whose handlebar moustache is as reknowned as his fine relief pitching.

Fingers struck out the dangerous Joe Ferguson for the last out of the inning, then got through the ninth with the help of a dazzling double play started by the omnipresent Green.

'We can't afford to think negative because we're down three games to one," noted Garvey, refusing to play dead. "You can bet we'll be back tomorrow.

Fall roundup: Milestone of the west

By RON SPEER FOR AP Newsfeatures

HOT SPRINGS. S.D. (AP) - Cowboys on horseback are fanning across the wide open spaces of the West before dawn these days, continuing a cattle-country ritual little changed over the years despite a rapidly changing Hunting cows are the riders on the Quarter-Circle Z Bar and their cowboy colleagues on the Rocking R and the Lazy H and the Star and the Spade and hundreds of other Western ranches.

It's fall roundup time, one of the two major milestones of the year on the prairie. The other is the spring roundup.

It's a time when neighbors gather, strayed relatives return to the home place, and cattlemen can quietly show off their cows and their horses and their kids, just as did their daddies and their granddaddies in days gone by.

Oh, there have been changes on some ranches. with helicopters and jeeps and motorcycles used to chase in the cattle, but mostly ranchers still round up their cows as their ancestors did a century ago — with tough, wiry men and tough, wiry

"Cows should be handled with horses," says Frank D. Wilson, part Indian, part Irishman, all cowman, who reigns over 160,000 acres of lonely prairie as the owner of the Quarter-Circle Z Bar ranch in southwest South Dakota, east of Hot Springs.

Wilson's spread stretches from the Cheyenne River on which he owns nine miles of waterfront - to the White River, some 20 miles to the southeast.

Between the rivers there is little on the land but cattle. grazing on the grass of a land where little rain falls, streams are far apart, the sun beats down unmercifully in the summer and the wind and the snow sweep bitterly across the rolling hills in the winter.

Only a century ago, hunters and warriors from the Sioux Nation roamed this land, with Crazy Horse and Red Cloud and Sitting Bull and other Indian leaders winning battles but losing the war against the white man.

They start spreading across the prairie at 4 a.m. on the Quarter-Circle Z Bar on roundup day, moving the cattle toward the corrals located in a broad valley, with no other man-made structure in sight except a weathered old shack once used by riders patrolling the lonely prairie.

The cowhands are 26 strong this day for the Quarter-Circle Z Bar roundup, recruited from Wilson's regular ranch hands, from neighboring ranches and from kinfolk who have come back home to help.

The young calves — born six months ago - are the object of the fall roundup. They will be cut out of the herd and trucked off to the sale barn at Chadron, Neb., 50 miles to the south, where they will be sold to Easterners with corn to feed them until they are fat and ready to be slaughtered for the nation's beefsteak and ribs and hamburger and roast beef.

On the cattle come, by the hundreds, over the hills and into skillfully designed barbwire funnels built to guide them into the corrals.

Wilson, on his black horse long before dawn with the other cowboys although he concedes he is well into his 70s, pulls up on a ridge and watches his cattle pass, the animals lumbering toward the corrals as unwisely as lemmings on their migration. The cows and calves trot down the hill on the final stretch, carefully stepping over thousands of holes in a town of prairie dogs, a town which mushrooms each year as rapidly as any exploding suburb.

By the time the sun is up, casting a golden glow across the dying grass, the cattle are enclosed in the wooden cor-

Open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Half a dozen riders stay in the saddle but the others tie their horses to the fence and walk into the maze of the corrals to sort the calves from the cows. The riders on horseback push the cattle into a final trap where cowboys on foot turn the mothers back to the freedom of the pasture, holding the youngsters. The calves are herded into the chutes leading to the waiting semitrailer trucks which can carry more than 100 head. and truckload after truckload heads over the hills to the sale barn at Chadron where they'll be sold two days hence.

While their trucks are being loaded, Wilson's daughters, Mrs. Freeman Rapp and Mrs. Bill Kuhl, and his wife drive up in a station wagon loaded with soft drinks and coffee and barbecue sandwiches and

The food goes fast, because it's been a long time since breakfast. Then the remaining calves are loaded on trucks and the cowboys head for home. Some of the riders put their horses in trailers and drive off, a small concession to modern ranch equipment. But others rope fresh horses and ride home, galloping off as friskily as they rode up.

The fall roundup on the Quarter-Circle Z Bar is over for another year.

Older Japanese changing style

TOKYO (AP) - Quarreling where elderly couples can live with the kids and crowding in tiny apartments are problems that confront many old people in Japan, but not Mrs. Asa Koizumi, one of the few Japanese living in an old people's

The changing attitudes between generations often make it hard for old and young Japanese to get along together. And. as in the case of Mrs. Koizumi. there isn't enough room in many crowded apartments for the elderly Japan's population is aging with unusual speed and the trend is expected to put more pressure on the government for improved welfare programs while burdening the economy with more nonproductive consumers. Both the political and economic changes are expected to be profound, according to various experts.

Mrs. Koizumi is an 83-yearold grandmother with deep wrinkles and strong, steady hands. She is healthy and able to move easily about her modest traditional straw-mat room and the various buildings where she lives at the Shisei Old People's home. It is in Tachikawa, a city on the western outskirts of Tokyo.

The widow moved into the home 10 years ago. Before that she had been living with her eldest son, his wife and their two children in a three-room apartment in Hachioji west of Tachikawa. The apartment's biggest room was only about 8-by-10 feet and the smallest of the three rooms was like a walk-in closet in a Western home.

"My grandson got bigger, so I gave up my space to the children," she said. "But I'm very happy here ... and I'd like to stay.

She said she thinks that it is the duty of children to take care of their parents, but she is not sure that means they must live in the same home.

Mrs. Koizumi gets a monthly pension of 6,500 yen ($22 U.S.) from the national and local government. Her four children share in paying the monthly bill of 10,000 yen (about $34) for their mother's room. The home also gets another 30,000 yen ($103) in government subsidies for each resident like Mrs. Koizumi, according to its operthe number has doubled in 10 centage of Japanese over 60 years and is expected to continue growing sharply, said Mitsuo Isomura, head of the National Social Welfare Council. The percentage of old people is rising so sharply in Japan because of the decline in birth and death rates after World pered off more slowly. Isomura War II. It means that the per- said.

will more than double from 8 to 18 per cent in the 40 years from 1955 to 1995, according to government estimates. That is much quicker than in most Western nations where the birth and death rates have ta-
